The workforce have really pulled together to

People-powered research

We celebrated International Clinical Trials Day with the launch of a new website: www.cityofresearch.org to help recruit more members of our community to take part in healthcare research – please take a look, and spread the word among family and friends. Here's our Director of Research, Professor John Wright, to tell you more: <https://vimeo.com/530137774>

Mel's weekly news round up

In the week that marked International Clinical Trials Day, Mel hears from some of our research nurses about their exciting and important work happening here at the Trust: <https://youtu.be/hKrBsrFinak>

There's also news about a great scheme for people with hidden disabilities. And the introduction of an innovative piece of kit that helps patients who regularly take medication intravenously.

We also celebrate the amazing career of Neonatologist, Dr Chris Day, who retires later this month after over 40 years at Bradford Royal Infirmary.

Plus there's a round-up of other news happening right across our hospitals.

Last week's vlog from Mel

Last week Mel was at our vaccination hub here at Bradford Royal Infirmary with some important news about its work and next steps: <https://youtu.be/8ZfxL0cvv1U>

There's also an announcement about a new, major research trial starting here in Bradford. This is the latest study for our newly-established Patient Recruitment Centre.

And we hear from our ICU nurses who have been at the forefront of our COVID care at the Trust. They're also looking after themselves too – coming up with some great team ideas to make sure they remain fit and well.

You can also catch a round-up of other things happening across the Trust – including a fantastic young fundraiser for our Bradford Hospitals' Charity.

Unit's new home opens its doors

Our haematology and oncology services have moved into a new home– 'The Meadows Unit' – at Eccleshill Community Hospital. A large, dedicated area has been totally transformed, fully re-decorated and renovated and specially designed with all the comforts of our patients in mind. Take a sneak peek here <https://bit.ly/3wknoMj>

Nurses praised

NHS England's Chief Nursing Officer, Ruth May, surprised a group of our nurses when she announced they were all winners of special awards for nurses who go 'above and beyond'. Click here for full story <https://bit.ly/3v7Wg2Z>

Motor milestone

Since its launch, BRI's dual electric vehicle charging point has been used over 1,000 times by both staff and members of the public. A guide explaining how to use an app or membership card to operate it can be found on its exterior!

Tree of Kindness takes root at BRI

As part of our new #EmbeddingKindness campaign, staff will describe what kindness means to them on one of the tree's leaves, and help embed its importance even deeper into the fabric of the Trust.
